

"His stamp as an architect was naturalness."

—Jack Nicklaus

Many consider him the greatest golf course architect of all time. Acknowledged as the patron saint of American Golf Course Architects, Scottish born Donald J. Ross, was once quoted as saying, "It has been my good fortune to bring happiness to many men and great trouble to many men." More National Championships have been played over courses designed by him than any other Golf Course Architect, then and now.

Now, you can display this magnificent solid Bronze Bust of the man who designed your course along with an estimated 350 courses in the US alone. His designs have stood the test of time and as Arnold Palmer has said, "still the greatest in the world".

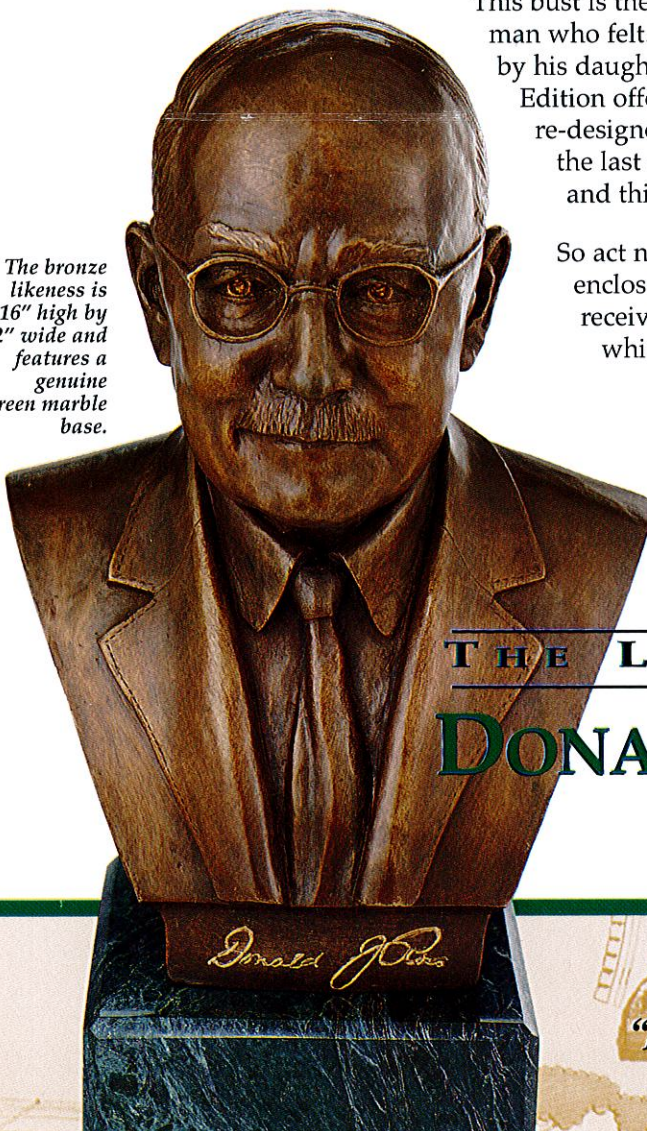

The bronze likeness is 16" high by 12" wide and features a genuine green marble base. Just think of being able to proudly display the bust of this true legend of golf. The man whose course you play on. The course that was designed by a true golf visionary. Only 250 of these Hand-Crafted busts will be sold, and each one is numerically numbered and comes with an authenticated certificate of this Limited Edition Masterpiece.

Renowned sculptor, Robert Shure, was commissioned to create this perfect likeness of Mr. Ross. In recent years, Robert Shure produced the Cy Young Monument, Boston's Ted Williams Tunnel Monument, and in 1999, the Joe Dimaggio Permanent Memorial at Yankee Stadium.

This bust is the only exclusively authorized likeness of the man who felt... "My work will tell my story." Authorized by his daughter, Lillian Ross-Pippitt, this bust is a Limited Edition offered only to Donald J. Ross designed or re-designed golf courses and historical collectors. When the last casting is completed, the molds will be destroyed and this exquisite bust will never be available again.
